Carsten Fischer, President of P&G Professional Care, to Join Shiseido as Corporate Advisor

Effective from October 1*, 2006, Carsten Fischer, currently President of the Professional Care business at Proctor & Gamble ("P&G"; Headquarters: Cincinnati, Ohio), will join Shiseido as a Corporate Advisor.

Mr. Fischer, previously President of Wella Japan Co., Ltd. and Executive Vice-President for the Asia-Pacific region at the Wella Group, has a strong proven track record of engineering outstanding growth both in Japan and the Asian region. He joined P&G following its acquisition of the Wella Group in 2004 as President of its Professional Care business, and is highly recognized within the industry as an established leader with a talent for crafting and implementing global strategies. He has also demonstrated great leadership in successfully integrating the Wella hair care business into the P&G organization.

With Shiseido's overseas sales currently generating approximately 30% of consolidated group sales, the acceleration of its globalization initiatives have further become one of its key business strategies. Shiseido is aiming to reinforce an organizational structure in which brands and capable personnel would be able to stretch beyond boundaries in better optimizing its businesses resources. Given Mr. Fischer's impressive achievements in leading global companies, he brings to Shiseido a distinguished management know-how with business and organization building ability, which will serve as key assets in achieving Shiseido's objectives.

In his new role as Corporate Advisor at Shiseido, Mr. Fischer will be involved in the international businesses.

(* Mr. Fischer is expected to be officially assigned as Corporate Advisor in mid-October due to matters related to obtaining a visa.)
